

ABSTRACT

A 3D surround system including a plurality of speakers is provided, a guidance-information acquiring unit acquires information on route guidance, and a control unit controls output of a guide sound so that a direction from which the guide sound is heard moves based on the information, using at least two speakers among the speakers. In addition, the output of the guide sound is controlled using a low-pitched sound speaker and other speakers among the speakers.